

Biography of Mrs. Angela Joseph

Mrs. Angela Joseph can be described as the consummate educator who brings over 15 years of experience to the classroom. This graduate from Andrews University brings great passion and dedication to her classroom and specializes in the teaching of reading, writing, and mathematics.

This educator creates a classroom that ignites the imagination of her students. She uses technology to enhance the teaching and learning process and has implemented the Socratic Method to help young scholars become independent and critical thinkers. Her mantra for her classroom is “We Soar S.M.A.R.T.E.R” an acronym for science, math, arts, religion, technology, engineering, and real world - experiences.

She is trained in piano and voice from The Royal School of Music in London and Trinity College. She is a progressive 21st Century educator that invests time in upgrading her credentials and implementing all the current features in enhancing her scholars learning experience. Young scholars and parents testify to the joy experienced in her “come alive” classroom.

Her aim is to emulate the master teacher Jesus Christ by showing love for his children. Mrs. Cromwell believes that the education she provides must harmoniously develop her scholars spiritually, academically, and socially. This will ultimately prepare them for a place in this world and the Kingdom of God.
